

Kennally Creek Trail - Payette National Forest

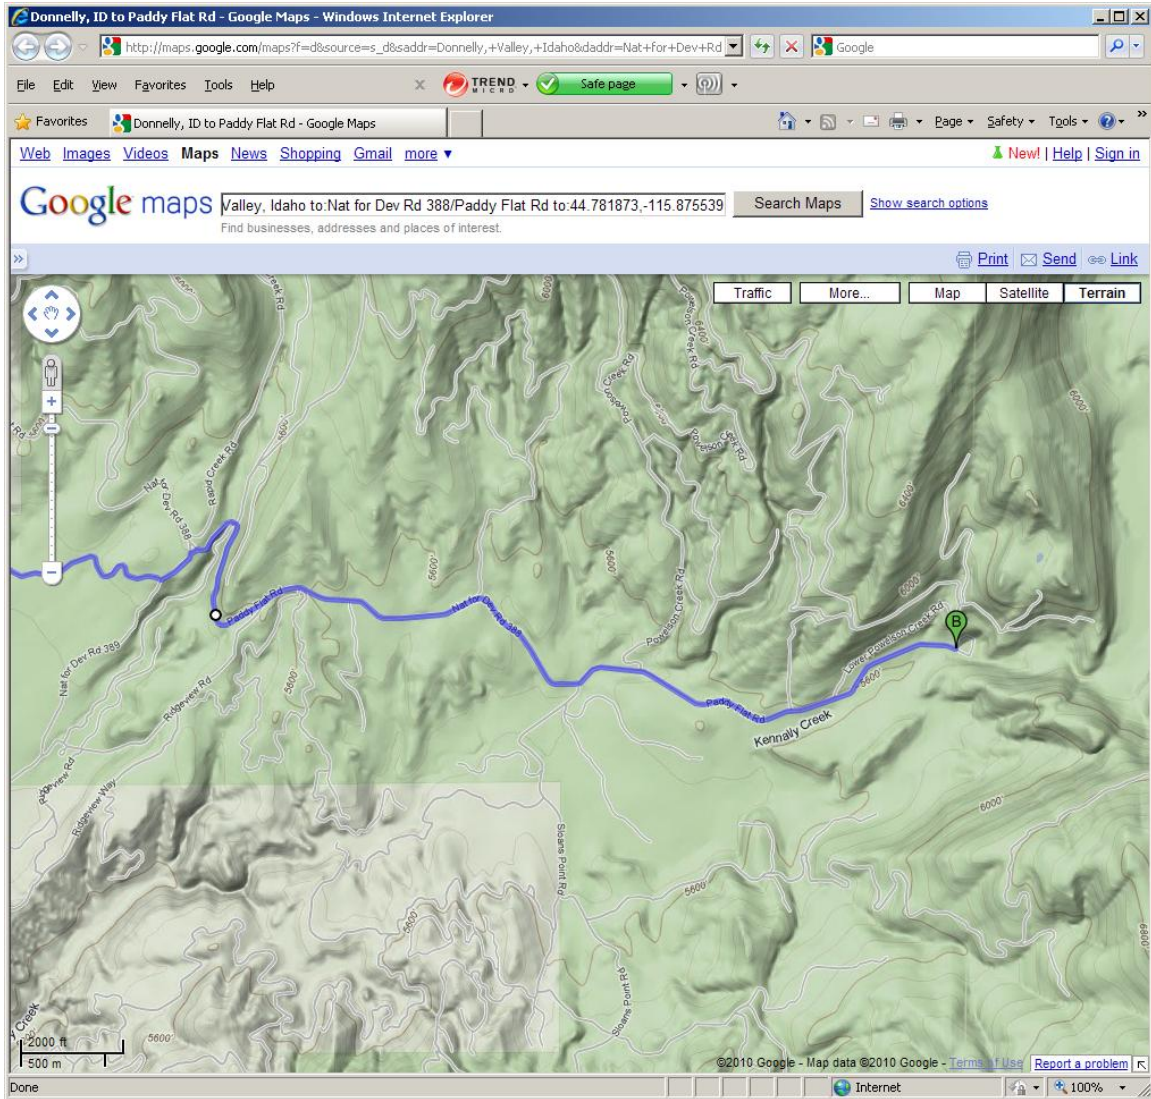

Description: To reach the trailhead at Kennally Creek, campground, turn east off Highway 55 onto the graveled and dirt Paddy Flat Road. Drive seventeen miles to the campground. The beginning of this trail borders Kennally Creek as it froths over water-beaten boulders. In slightly less than a mile, the trail crosses the North Fork of Kennally Creek on a wooden bridge. At 2.5 miles, the trail crosses a creek. This is the Kennally Lakes or Cougar Lakes Trail and is a fifteen-to-eighteen mile steep hike. This is a popular horse trail as is the Needles trail that also takes off from the main Kennally Creek trail. There is a horse-unloading ramp just outside the campground.

Kennally Creek Campground:

There is an established camp ground there, but of course horses can not be there. There is a horse area just before the camp ground and the creek is just across the road. The main trail stays in the valley of Kennally creek, very flat. There are two other trails that take off to the East and South. Jon Seel and I cleared both of those trails this past summer.
